Troubleshooting the 2026 Educators Rising National Conference App

To avoid issues at the conference, download and sign into the app before you come to Orlando! We cannot guarantee the quality of Wi-fi or cellular connectivity in all areas of the conference hotel. Therefore your safest bet is to setup the app while you have access to a fast connection.

If you're experiencing issues with the app, check to see if the permissions in your phone for the app are enabled. Look under the settings on your phone to make sure permissions are enabled for the PDK/Educators Rising app.

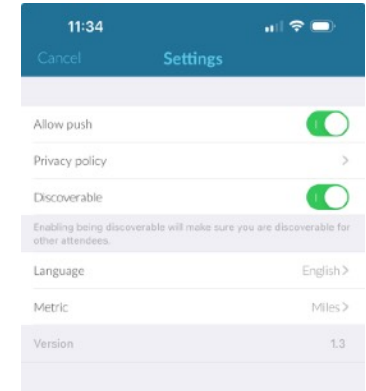

If these steps do not work:

- Delete and reinstall the app to make sure you do not have a corrupted version.
- Make sure you are logged out from last year's event if you attended.
- Ensure there are no spaces in your name when inserting your password and that the first letter of your last name is uppercase. If your last name has multiple capital letters and/or is hyphenated, only the first letter of the last name is capitalized.
- Check with the person who registered you for the conference to see which email they registered you under.

Sharing Your Conference Experience on Social Media

In addition to the Photo Sharing feature in our app, you no doubt can share your Educators Rising National Conference experiences online. First, always ensure you have permission to take photographs of other Educators Rising participants before sharing pictures. Second, use our conference hashtag to enable all of us to find our posts easier to find: #EdRising26

Tap the ● ● ● menu to access the App Settings. If you're not receiving updates at the conference, ensure that allow push is toggled.

We will push our agenda updates and announcements throughout the conference.

Visit My Profile to remove yourself from our conference directory, add a photo, and/or any details you'd like to share with attendees. Please be respectful and only populate your profile with appropriate information.
